GALWAY BUSINESS GIVES WINGS TO DREAMS ARVIND SINGH LDD Rohtas, Bihar

Yes, this perfectly defines the success journey of Galwian Arvind Singh. It is said that a new year brings new hopes, but hopes turn into reality only when they get the right direction and a strong platform. Galway is one such platform where dreams are not just seen, but truly lived. A new year does not only change the calendar, it gives a new direction to thoughts,

Not every dream makes noise.
Some dreams demand honesty and hard work
Not all dreams come true everywhere
some need a strong platform like Galway
And those who walk with the Galway business one day touch the seven skies of success...

dreams and resolutions. What has passed becomes experience and what lies ahead is full of opportunities. The year 2025 with Galway Business brought a ray of hope for all those who want to rise from ordinary to extraordinary.

He dreamed big, followed the company's strong system and wrote his own successful future. This bright future is best reflected in this month's Distributor of the Month, Arvind Singh. His story clearly shows that when determination is strong and the platform is as powerful as Galway, success naturally follows. His journey proves that with big thinking, strong belief and consistent hard work, even a simple life can become extraordinary.

Thinking Beyond Education

Before joining Galway Business, Arvind Singh was focused on studies to secure a job. Once, while accompanying his acquaintance Rakesh Singh as an advisor, he attended a company seminar in Jamshedpur. This seminar became a turning point in his life, where he decided to start a new journey with Galway himself. During the seminar, he realized that a job could fulfill daily needs but could not match the height of his dreams. His dreams were big, owning a house, a better lifestyle, a secure future for his family and the freedom to live life on his own terms. This thinking connected him with Galway Business on 6 July 2015. After joining Galway, the first change came in his mindset. He learned that to change life, one must first change the way of thinking.

Changed Thinking, Changed Status

Galway Business did not just make Arvind Singh a dreamer, it made him a dream achiever. Where he stands today is the result of his continuous hard work. A house worth around 1.5 crore in Varanasi, not one but two cars, a premium iPhone worth 1.5 lakh, and travelling in a car worth 15 lakhs, all these reflect his transformed mindset and strong trust in Galway. For him, these achievements symbolize self-confidence, self-reliance and self-respect. Recently, on 19 January, at the Leadership Meet Sankalp-2026 held in New Delhi, he was not only a participant but was also honored by the company directors for his strong leadership.

Power of Trust, System and Teamwork

Arvind Singh believes that Galway has given him not just income but a life filled with memorable royal experiences. With Galway, he has taken more than 10 flight trips. From Shimla to Thailand, he has enjoyed both domestic and international travel, stayed in five star hotels, attended grand parties and even went on a dream trip to Jammu & Kashmir with his wife.

He says that the biggest reason behind his success is his unshakable trust in Galway. Here, he received a strong support system, the power of teamwork and genuine guidance from his Upline. In Galway, no one walks alone, the entire system moves together. This is why success reaches not only the leader but also the team and the entire network.

Faster Growth with Family Business

Arvind says that even if Galway is done alone, success is possible, but when it becomes a family business, growth multiplies. With this belief, he connected his wife Neetu Singh with Galway. Today, both husband and wife work together and turn their dreams into reality. His wife is now a confident and self-reliant woman, balancing both family and business efficiently.

Arvind Singh strongly believes that doing any business without learning can be risky. Along with doing Galway Business, he took every training seriously, whether it was S.O. classes, master training, product detailing sessions or guidance from his Upline. He believes that when you clearly understand the business plan, know the quality of products and learn how to give the right demo, the business grows at super speed. Galway's training system, product retailing, one-to-one meetings, powerhouse meetings, Galway Kitchen and Dream Corner strengthen the entire network.

LDD Today, GDD Tomorrow

Today, Arvind Singh is working at the LDD rank, but his vision is much bigger. He says that his next milestone is GDD. He believes that Galway gives equal opportunities to everyone. As ranks grow, dreams also fly higher. This is the beauty of Galway, it not only offers strong income but also provides work & life balance, quality family time and opportunities to travel the world. His success story proves that he did not see Galway Business just as an opportunity but as a platform to change his destiny. It shows that when thinking is big and the system is strong, an ordinary person can become extraordinary.

Arvind Singh always gives this message to his team, believe in yourself, trust the company, follow your upline and work consistently. Do not worry about results, because when you work in the right direction, success automatically follows you. Working without goals has no value. Dream big, set targets and move forward with full focus. Like me, tomorrow you too can proudly call yourself a successful Galwian.

Seaweed: A Trusted Partner for Soil, Crops and Farmers

Galway has always guided farmers and distributors toward advanced and organic farming practices and modern agricultural techniques. In the previous issue of the Galway Newsletter, we discussed the benefits of bio-fertilizers, organic fertilizers, micro and multi micronutrients and bio-stimulants. In this issue, we focus on Seaweed.

Today, farming is changing rapidly. Farmers are now looking for options that give better yield, do not damage soil health, and help maintain the nutritional value of grains and vegetables. This is why agriculture in India is gradually moving toward sustainable and residue-free methods. It is important to note that today's farmer is not farming only in the traditional way but with smart thinking and a business-oriented approach. Especially young farmers are showing interest in reducing dependency on chemical fertilizers and adopting new and effective solutions. In this changing scenario, seaweed has emerged as a powerful and natural option. It supports healthy crops and better production without increasing dependence on chemical products.

What is Seaweed

Seaweed is a diverse group of aquatic organisms that produce their own food through photosynthesis. They are mainly found in fresh water, salt water, or moist environments. Seaweed is one of the major producers of oxygen on Earth and ranges from microscopic single-celled organisms (diatoms) to large multicellular forms (kelp). Seaweed plays an important role in aquatic ecosystems, produces oxygen and is also used for food, fertilizers and wastewater treatment.

Key Benefits:

- Promotes strong root growth
- Improves yield and crop quality
- Builds resistance against stress
- Improves soil health
- Safe, sustainable, natural and biodegradable

About 5–10 years ago, most farmers knew seaweed mainly as a crop enzyme (bio-stimulant) used to improve crop quality. At that time, there were limited options, and Indian farming mostly used seaweed in granular form. Ascophyllum was the most commonly used seaweed and was often applied without clear guidelines.

In recent years, the inclusion of new seaweed species under the FCO (Fertilizer Control Order, 1985) by the government has brought a major change in this sector. Now options such as Turbinaria, Gracilaria, Kappaphycus, and Rhodophyte-based potash are also available. The addition of these new seaweed species has increased product diversity and expanded their use in agriculture.

Today, seaweed-based fertilizers are available in high-concentrated powder and liquid forms. Whether it is grains, vegetables, fruits, or horticulture crops, seaweed can be used for all types of farming. Seaweed naturally contains plant growth hormones and bio-stimulants that are quickly absorbed by plants and support growth from roots to flowering and fruiting.

That is why Galway is soon introducing advanced seaweed-based products in its new product range.

A New Support for Organic Farming

Now is the time to provide farmers and distributors with the right information about this new opportunity. Seaweed-based organic fertilizers not only help increase production but also maintain soil health in the long term. Let us all become part of this change and move away from chemicals toward natural and bio-fertilizer-based farming. This is the smart farming approach of the future, beneficial for farmers, the land and future generations.
